AND TECHNICAL STATE UNIVERSITY

NC A&T State University

Throughout the years North Carolina A&T State University's elite academic programs have led to pioneers in the areas of politics, media, business, engineering, sports the Armed Services. Become an Aggie and watch your goals realized. Whether it is running for president, being an executive for a pro franchise or hosting a popular television show, N.C. A&T offers tremendous opportunities for its student population. N.C. A&T has a lot to offer beyond the typical classroom setting. The large variety of student organizations, intramural sports and leadership opportunities foster excellence and make for an unforgettable and rewarding college experience.

Lasting friendships are created through participation in athletics, Greek life, the A&T student newspaper (A&T Register), WNAA 90.1 FM, Blue & Gold Marching Machine, ROTC and much, much more. Unlike other campuses, where students are randomly assigned to residence halls, at N.C. A&T you can choose from 13 different halls including traditional rooms, suites, and two or four bedroom apartments. Currently, more than 4,000 students take advantage of the convenience and community of campus life.

INNOVATIVE, CREATIVE AND DEDICATED

N.C. A&T is the nation's No. 1 producer of minorities with degrees in science, mathematics, engineering and technology.

Aggieland is the third largest producer of African-American engineers with master's degrees and it is a leading producer of African-American engineers with doctorate degrees.

Females comprise approximately 30 percent of the students in the College of Engineering, thus ranking the college sixth in the country in the percentage of degrees awarded to women.

N.C. A&T is one of only two schools in North Carolina with an accredited mass communication and journalism program.

N.C. A&T had the first nationally accredited accounting program in the country among HBCUs.

N.C. A&T was reaffirmed for accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) for another 10 years.

N.C. A&T is ranked among the top three HBCUs in the nation for science and engineering research.

More than 95 percent of N.C. A&T's full-time tenured faculty have doctorates.

N.C. A&T is one of the top producers of certified public accountants among HBCUs.

N.C. A&T is the only HBCU in the nation with a landscape architecture program, and the only university in North Carolina with an undergraduate landscape architecture program.

N.C. A&T is also a leading producer of minority landscape architects and veterinarians.

N.C. A&T's motorsports program races internationally. The School of Business and Economics holds the distinction of being the nation's only HBCU with its own Wall Street trading room.

The Greensboro Four

On Feb. 1, 1960 four black freshmen at North Carolina A&T State University, Franklin McCain, Joseph McNeil, Ezell Blair, Jr. (Jibreel Khazan), and David Richmond took seats at the segregated lunch counter of F. W. Woolworth's in Greensboro, N.C.

They were refused service and sat peacefully until the store closed. They returned the next day, along with about 25 other students, and their requests were again denied. The Greensboro Four inspired similar sit-ins across the state and by the end of February, such protests were taking place across the South.

Finally in July, Woolworth's integrated all of its stores. The original Woolworth's counter and stools now sit in the Smithsonian Museum, but a Sit-In Museum is being planned for the old Woolworth's building where the event actually occurred.

The four have become icons of the civil rights movement. A statue of the four sits prominently in front of the Dudley Building on the West Campus.

Homecoming

North Carolina A&T's Homecoming Celebration

North Carolina A&T's Homecoming celebration is one of Greensboro's largest tourist attractions. Thousands of Aggies participate in the elaborate parade, football game and activities totaling millions of dollars in revenue for the city. More than 40 events are normally planned throughout the week. Considered The Greatest Homecoming on Earth, the event lives up to its reputation consistently. Each year the gameday crowd ranks among the most highly attended games nationally in the Division I Football Championship Series. The Aggies annual Homecoming comedy show and concert attracts some of the most popular names in entertainment

Famous Aggie Alumni

Rev. Jesse Jackson, Sr., is an American politician, civil rights activist, and Baptist minister. He was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1984 and 1988. Jackson played football while he was a student at N.C. A&T. In 2005, he was named as one of the NCAA's most influential athletes over the past 100 years.

Jackson's son Jesse Jackson Jr., is a U.S. Congressman from Illinois. Representative Jackson currently sits on the House Appropriations Committee, serving as the 5th ranking Democrat on the Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education as well as the 2nd ranking Democrat on the Subcommittee on Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs.

Dr. Ronald McNair is the late astronaut who perished in the Challenger Tragedy in 1986. The University honored him with the dedication of the Ronald E. McNair Hall, which houses the College of Engineering.

Joe Dudley is the founder of the multi-million dollar company called Dudley Products. Dudley started selling his hair products door-to-door. Today, Dudley Products has annual revenues of $30 million.

Brig. Gen. Clara L. Adams-Ender (retired) is the first black Army Nurse Corps officer to graduate from the U.S. Army War College, first woman to earn a masters from U.S. Army Command & General Staff College.

Major General Hawthorne Proctor (Retired) received his commission in 1968 as a distinguished military graduate from N.C. A&T.

Elvin Bethea was a gridiron great on the football field for the Aggies, and was inducted into the NFL Hall of Fame in 2003.

Al Attles is a former Aggie great on the basketball court and is the vice president of the NBA's Golden State Warriors.

Henry Frye, a former North Carolina Supreme Court Justice, graduated from N.C. A&T in 1953. In 1983, he became the first black justice to serve on the N.C. Supreme Court.

Lillie Robbins retired in 2002 from the U.S. Department of Education Office of Civil Rights after 34 years of award-winning service. Robbins has been actively involved in A&T's Alumni Association.

Edolphus Towns is a U.S. Congressman from New York. Towns is an American politician and a member of the U.S. House of Representatives, representing the 10th District of New York based in Brooklyn, and including such communities such as Fort Greene, Bedford Stuyvesant, East New York, and Canarsie. He has served in the House since 1983.

Terrence Jenkins is known to the world as Terrence J, the co-host of Black Entertainment Television's music video countdown show 106 & Park. The program is the highest rated show on BET. During his undergraduate days at N.C. A&T, Jenkins worked at the campus radio station WNAA 90.1 FM, and he was Student Government Association president.

Greensboro, Piedmont Triad

The Piedmont Triad is largely made up of three cities – Greensboro, Winston-Salem and High Point. The area is connected by four major Interstates – 40, 85, 73 and 74. Steeped in a rich cultural history, the Triad area consists of three historically black colleges and universities and was a pioneer in the American Civil Rights Movement. There are an estimated 1.5 million people in the area making it the 30th largest metropolitan area in the U.S.

GREENSBORO is the largest city in Guilford County and the third largest city in North Carolina. It has been the home of North Carolina A&T since 1893 when the school was relocated from Raleigh, where it was originally founded in 1891. Greensboro is midway between Raleigh and Winston-Salem, creating an urban triangle known as the Piedmont area. Greensboro has a population of more than 220,000.

The average high temperature in Greensboro is 69 degrees. The average low is 48 degrees. The average temperature for the area is 58 degrees. Nearly 40 percent of Greensboro's population is African American. Almost 50 percent of the population is made up of minorities. Students at North Carolina A&T State University have numerous opportunities to socialize with students from other institutions of higher learning in the Greensboro area. The proximity of the schools also makes for excellent athletic rivalries. There are five colleges or universities within the city of Greensboro (with athletic departments) and eight in the Piedmont Triad.

Corbett Sports Center

One of the loudest and traditionally toughest places to play in the Mid-Eastern-Athletic Conference and even Division I is the Ellis F. Corbett Center.

Over the years, Corbett Sports Center has been a place to celebrate many North Carolina A&T women's basketball victories, a place of frustration for opponents and a place to have a fun time for the millions of students, fans, alumni and faculty who have walked through the doors since the building opened in 1978.

Corbett Sports Center is also the home facility for the N.C. A&T men's basketball, volleyball and swimming teams. It also houses classes for N.C. A&T's Human Performance and Leisure Studies program. A remodeled Corbett Sports Center looks to make the atmosphere inside even better. Among the changes made at Corbett over the last few years, includes a new floor, the addition of luxury stadium seating, a new sound system and more concessions for the crowd's convenience.

The renovations have enhanced the look and atmosphere inside of Corbett, but one theme will remain constant -- winning. Under head coach Patricia Cage-Bibbs, the Aggies have a current 22-game winning streak at home. Also under Bibbs, the Aggies are 37-8 for a .822 winning percentage.

The building is named for Ellis F. Corbett, who served N.C. A&T for nearly 50 years. While his official title was Sports Information Director, he performed many other roles on campus including Dorm Counselor and he was a member of the Board in Control of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Strength & Conditioning

Strength & Conditioning

A key component of the resurgence of the Aggies basketball program occurs inside the spacious Aggie Strength and Conditioning Center. In fact, all 15 of the Aggies varsity sports benefit from the philosophy of the Aggies strength and conditioning program of committed and disciplined weight training to enhance physical capabilities and reduces risk of injury. Under the leadership of certified strength and conditioning coach Cedric Walthaw, becoming a fine-tuned athlete has become a 12-month commitment and the results can be seen through the basketball team's improved strength in the post and their speed on the fastbreak.

Built in 2001, the Aggies Strength and Conditioning Center includes six Olympic platforms complete with bumpers plates and bars, free weights, multi-squat racks, hammer machines and 12 bench press stations. The center also includes two treadmills and stationary bikes for agility and warm-up workouts. The 4,500 square foot facility makes the center a model facility for not only historically black college and universities, but also for Division I Football Championship Subdivision football programs.

Walthaw is assisted by former football standout Montray Jackson. Walthaw's staff focuses on increasing muscular strength and power, enhancing movement mechanics, and increasing energy on the field to improve physical ability and manage the stress of physical competition. The goal is to improve the success rate of each varsity sport. In the highly competitive Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference, the Aggies off-the-playing surface preparation is crucial. Aggie athletes enjoy working through this preparation in a top-of-the line facility.

Sports Medicine

Sports Medicine

The North Carolina A&T sports medicine department recently underwent personnel upgrades to better support the medical needs of the more than 300 North Carolina A&T student-athletes. The training room facility is located inside the Joseph & Kathleen Bryan Fitness and Wellness Center. It features state-of-the-art equipment for the treatment and rehabilitation of injuries. The N.C. A&T sports medicine department is under the direction of Benicia Cleveland, ATC, interim director of sports medicine. Cleveland and her staff incorporate the latest sports medicine technology to assure the physical health of Aggie student-athletes thanks to numerous treatment stations. Six certified athletic trainers from the department are assigned to various varsity sports to prevent and rehab injuries.

Academic Achievement

Aggie football players know they must be prepared to face the challenges MEAC competition presents on the field. Those same football players are aware they are expected to meet those same challenges in the classroom. North Carolina A&T Aggies understand the importance of winning on the field, but they are also adamant about the role academics play in the development of a student-athlete. N.C. A&T football coach Alonzo Lee has consistently said the way to the football field is through the classroom. In the past few seasons, the Aggies have placed players on the MEAC Commissioner's All-Academic Team, produced N.C. A&T scholar athletes and Arthur Ashe finalists. During the spring semester of 2008, twelve football players had better than a 3.0 grade point average.

Academic Enhancement Program

The program achieves some of its goals through tutorials, providing weekly tutoring in difficult subjects, study halls providing a more suitable environment for studying and the laptop loan program allowing athletes to complete assignments while traveling.

Lastly, the Helping Athletes Rise to the Top (H.A.R.T.) program creates a peer-supported environment for student-athletes to maximize academic, personal and social growth. The Student-Athlete Academic Enhancement program provides comprehensive and progressive services and resources to student-athletes. It enables our student-athletes to balance the demands of academics and athletics.

The Academic Enhancement program seeks to promote excellence, enhance retention and increase graduation rates among athletes. It provides academic monitoring; ensuring that all athletes are doing what is required to become successful in the classroom and their athletic environment. The Student-Athlete Academic Enhancement Program is under the division of The Center for Student Success (TCSS) which provides support to academic

Community Service

Student-Athlete Advisory Committee fosters a unified forum to provide equal representation from MEAC student-athletes relating to NCAA and Conference legislation, as well as other issues that affect our welfare. The committee is dedicated to maintaining a positive commitment to support and value equity among ALL student athletes.

SAAC in the Community

- Ghana Book Drive- Books were donated and moved to a facility accessible to all students at NC A&T. The donated books were shipped to Ghana and dispersed to those who are in need.
- Pink Zone Game- At our annual Lady Aggies PINK ZONE Basketball game, our SAAC chapter educated our community on the risks and factors of breast cancer. Two booths were set up in Corbett Sports Center. The booths were decorated with breast cancer pamphlets for the community and student body. Pink ribbons were sold to honor those with breast cancer or survivors or those lost to breast cancer. The purpose of this event was to create and raise awareness of breast cancer.
- Aggie Athletes Meet 'N' Greet at Sumner Elementary School, Greensboro, NC
Every year the Aggies SAAC chapter decides to visit a local school to spend time with the children! Aggies eat lunch, play and even tutor the kids for an entire afternoon. This is a day for the kids to meet collegiate athletes from all sports.
- 50/50 Raffle at Football and Basketball Games- At specific home football and basketball games, N.C. A&T's SAAC chapter conducts raffles to donate money to charitable causes.
- Halftime Contests- At basketball games the N.C. A&T SAAC chapter entertains our campus and community by holding relay, dance, and other contests to enhance the Aggie experience in Corbett Sports Center. Most of the contests allow children to win prizes such as tickets to the Circus or items from sponsors.
- Aggie Takeover Nights- This is a night dedicated to student-athletes at A&T. Student-Athletes participate in bowling, laser tag and other fun events that bring the athletics community together.

Student-Athletes at N.C. A&T have a voice!

One of SAAC's primary purposes is to be the voice for student athletes on any issue that affects the student athlete. Even if a student-athlete is not a member of SAAC but still wants to voice a concern, please inform a SAAC representative. SAAC meets every other Thursday.

Media Guidelines

PRESS ENTRANCE AND PARKING

- Entrance – Corbett Sports Center has two main entrances. The John Mitchell road side entrance is located near the Army ROTC building and Haley Hall. The other main entrance is the Benbow Road side entrance. It is located near the Alumni Center. Media are free to enter either entrance; however, the media are encouraged to enter the gate closest to the Benbow Road side entrance. The will call area for media is there.
- Parking – There is no designated area for media to park for North Carolina A&T home games. Therefore, the media relations department does not issue parking passes. The MR department suggests media park at the Aggies Tennis Complex parking lot across from Corbett Sports Center.

PRESS OPERATIONS

- Press Row – Corbett Sports Center's press row has limited space. There are approximately 10 seats at press row each home game. Those seats are occupied by North Carolina A&T marketing, the PA announcer, the shot clock operator, the game clock operator, the official scorebook person, the visiting team scorebook person, statistician and North Carolina A&T media relations staff. Therefore, there are limited seats for media and others who are there in an official capacity. If given prior notice, the North Carolina A&T media relations department can make alternative plans to accommodate media in terms of seating.
- Radio – Each team's radio network is provided spacious area from which to broadcast. Due to the limited space on press row, radio broadcasts at North Carolina A&T home games are broadcasted from the upper level near the John Mitchell Road entrance. The view from the upper level is excellent and statistics will be provided to the broadcast team after timeouts. One active phone line will be provided for each radio team.

From Brian M. Holloway, Athletics Media Relations Director

We hope you will find this publication helpful in your coverage and support of North Carolina A&T Basketball in 2009-2010. Every effort has been made to include timely and pertinent information. However, if there is something we overlooked we welcome your input in adding additional historic information that will give a full traditional picture of Aggie Basketball.

I can be reached at the Athletics media relations office at (336) 334-7141 or on my cell phone at (336) 328-6719. The fax number for the athletics media relations office is (336) 334-7181. Additional requests by accredited media representatives for items such as historical data, photographs and video should be directed to our office.

We urge media personnel to take a moment and read the guidelines designed to aid you in your coverage of Aggies Basketball.

- Television – Our space becomes even more limited when there are televised games at Corbett Sports Center. Therefore, only essential personnel will be allowed on press row. Television crews are set up opposite the main press row area. All video used to tape N.C. A&T basketball games must be approved by Director of Athletics, Wheeler Brown.

CREDENTIAL REQUESTS

- Credentials for N.C. A&T home basketball games are for working media only and are issued on a priority basis. Credentials should be requested as early as possible.
- Requests for credentials should be made in advance by e-mail (bmhollow@ncat.edu) or fax (336-334-7181) on company stationery and directed to Brian Holloway, Assistant Athletics Director for Media Relations.
- Children, spouses, dates, and pets are not permitted on press row.
- Smoking is not permitted.
- Requests are honored from sports editors of daily and weekly newspapers, editors of sports periodicals, and sports directors of radio and television stations who broadcast regularly scheduled daily sports reports and talk shows.
- Online media will not be granted requests for credentials and/or interviews with the exception of web sites that are officially affiliated with the participating universities, conferences, the NCAA, or established and recognized traditional media outlets.

- No online service, without approval for the N.C. A&T media relations office, will be allowed to cybercast or transmit in "real time" N.C. A&T State University athletic event. Those rights belong to the university, the MEAC, and the Aggie Sports Network.
- The N.C. A&T media relations office reserves the right to revoke or deny working media credentials to any individual or organization at any time for any reason. All credentials are the property of N.C. A&T State University and must be surrendered upon request.
- Any requests placed less than 24 hours prior to the game may not be honored.

MEDIA SERVICES

- The N.C. A&T media relations staff will provide working media with game notes, season statistics, rosters, programs, and media guides for both N.C. A&T and the visiting team prior to the game. Additional information, such as lineups, rosters, or jersey changes, will be distributed as the information becomes available.
- Official statistics package complete with individual and team statistics, play-by-play, scoring summaries and quotes will be provided to the media following the game.

INTERVIEWS

- N.C. A&T women's basketball head coach Patricia Cage-Bibbs and selected players will be available for postgame interviews in a designated classroom inside Corbett Sports Center. Interviews with players and/or coaches may not be conducted until the NCAA-mandated 10-minute cooling off period has expired.
- The N.C. A&T locker room is closed to the media.
- Pregame interviews with players and/or coaches on the day of the game will not be permitted under any circumstances.
- Requests for player interviews during the week must be made at least 24 hours in advance through the media relations department. Media making short notice requests may be denied.
- Player phone numbers will not be given out and media representatives are not to call N.C. A&T student-athletes directly. In-person interviews must be prearranged through the media relations office.

PRACTICES

- Practices are generally open to the media and public. Television crews and photographers may shoot the first 30 minutes of practice and the final 30 minutes of practice with prior approval from the N.C. A&T media relations office.

INJURY REPORTS

- Due to an athletics department policy, training personnel are not allowed to publicly comment on players' injuries. All requests for player injuries should be directed to assistant athletics director for media relations Brian Holloway or head coach Patricia Cage-Bibbs. Those requests will be relayed to interim head trainer Benicia Cleveland for clarification. ■
